

The 25 Shows You Need to See during Frieze Week

Frieze Week is much more than the sprawling fair on Randall’s Island—it’s a wealth of gallery and museum exhibitions that rallies an art world that has traveled to New York for the occasion. Here’s our curated look at 25 of the most adventurous and noteworthy options to add to your itinerary.

“Imaginary Ancestors” at Almine Rech
MAY 2–JUN. 15 • 39 EAST 78TH STREET
OPENING: MAY 2, 6–8 P.M.

Exhibition of Paintings by Derain, Early African Heads and Statues from the Gabon Pahouin Tribes at the Durand-Ruel Galleries New York, 1933. Image courtesy of Archives Durand-Ruel. ©Durand-Ruel& Cie, André Derain © 2017 Artists Rights Society (ARS), New York / ADAGP, Paris. Courtesy of Almine Rech.

Drawing on the historic 1933 exhibition of the same name at Durand-Ruel Gallery in New York, this two-part exhibition, organized with Carlo Severi and Bernard de Grunne, questions the role of Primitivism in modern and contemporary art. In addition to re-assembling that show of sculptures made by the Fang people of Central Africa and modern paintings, the exhibition also presents the works of contemporary artists, including Joe Bradley, Mark Grotjahn, and Matthew Lutz-Kinoy.